

Archaeology is not just about digging up the past; it's also about understanding the human experience and how cultural heritage still impacts us today.

Elise Nuridin Senior Heritage Consultant (Archaeologist)

Elise is a heritage consultant and archaeologist with a range of experience working on cultural heritage projects across both regional Victoria and within greater metropolitan Melbourne, as well as within regional NSW. She has over seven years' experience in Aboriginal and historical heritage management. Elise has led and delivered cultural heritage projects within a variety of sectors including government (local), utility providers, developers of residential and commercial subdivisions, civil infrastructure and transport developers.

Elise's skillset includes the development and execution of complex cultural heritage management plans, archaeological field work and assessment, stakeholder engagement, due diligence assessments, digital data analysis and management, and the development of high-quality deliverables for diverse types of heritage projects to meet client needs and manage risk.

Elise is a registered Heritage Advisor under the Aboriginal Heritage Act 2006 and is a full member of the Australian Association of Consulting Archaeologists Inc (AACAI).
