

Shikha Swaroop

Senior Heritage Consultant

Shikha Swaroop is a senior heritage consultant with over five years' experience. She holds a Bachelor of Architecture from BMS School of Architecture in Bangalore, India, and a Master of Urbanism (Heritage Conservation) from the University of Sydney. She is also trained in the conservation of traditional buildings and materials at Longford Academy, Tasmania.

Shikha is experienced in providing heritage design advice to a range of public and private sector clients. She has prepared heritage assessments, heritage management and conservation plans, heritage impact statements and schedules of conservation works for heritage places in New South Wales. She is well versed in Commonwealth, local and state legislation.

Prior to joining GML, Shikha worked in various heritage consultancies and architectural practices. She is an academic tutor in heritage conservation and previously urban design at the University of Sydney.

Shikha has a keen interest in architectural and conservation theory and its implementation in practice, fabric conservation and the integration of new design into a heritage setting. She also has skills in preparing measured drawings and architectural drawings using AutoCAD, ArchiCAD, Revit, Photoshop, Illustrator and InDesign.
